As another school year draws to a close,
it is time to look back on all we did.
Each day brought with it so many new things
to learn and do.
Although perhaps we didn't realize it,
we were growing up.

Pause now to take a closer look; and try to remember . . .

Remember all the hard work and serious study—sharing knowledge—
the times of confusion and bewilderment when the assignment was hard to understand—the feeling of pride and accomplishment at getting a good grade on that big test . . .

BURWEI

Remember the fun times too—learning to share responsibility—learning to be a leader and a follower—learning to be a modest winner and a graceful loser—learning to be yourself.

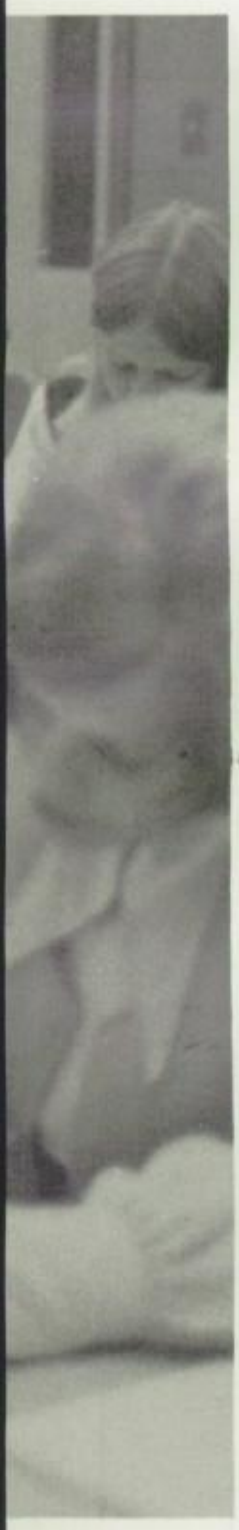
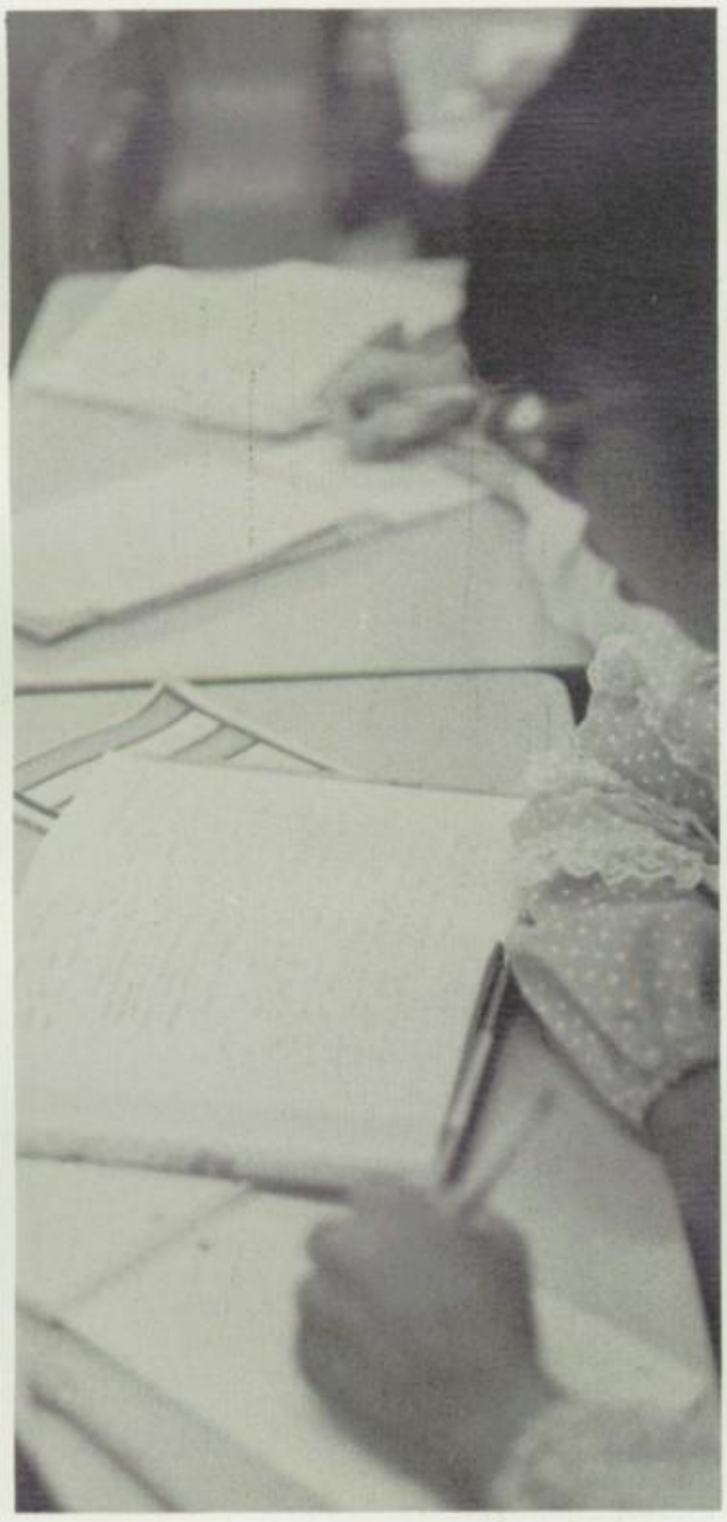
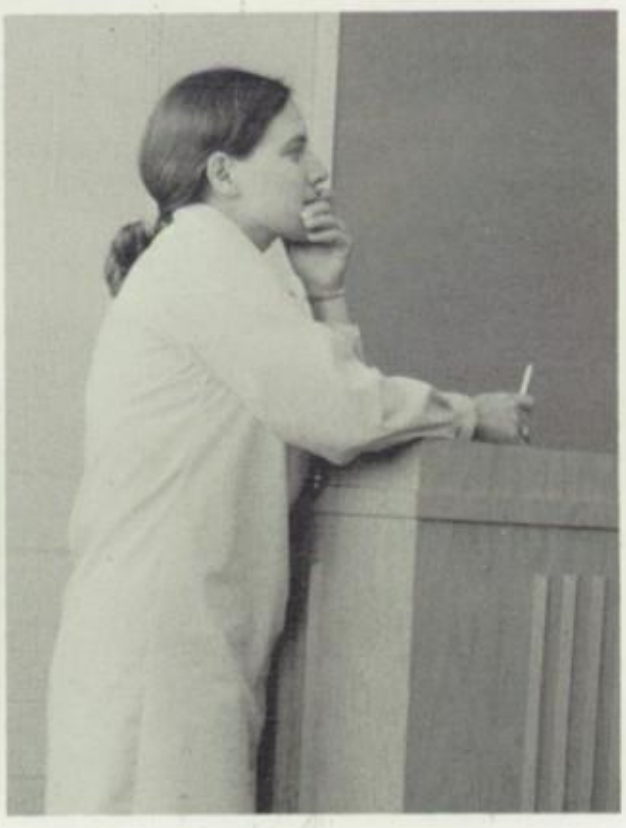
STAFF AND CURRICULUM







Eastwood Gains New Superintendent

Mr. John J. Poth, serving his first year as superintendent, supervises the education of all students in the Eastwood district. This year, the superintendent's office is located in the new junior high building. The school board serves as the governing body of our school district and is responsible for setting school policy. Bus drivers also serve the entire Eastwood district by providing transportation for the children to and from school.

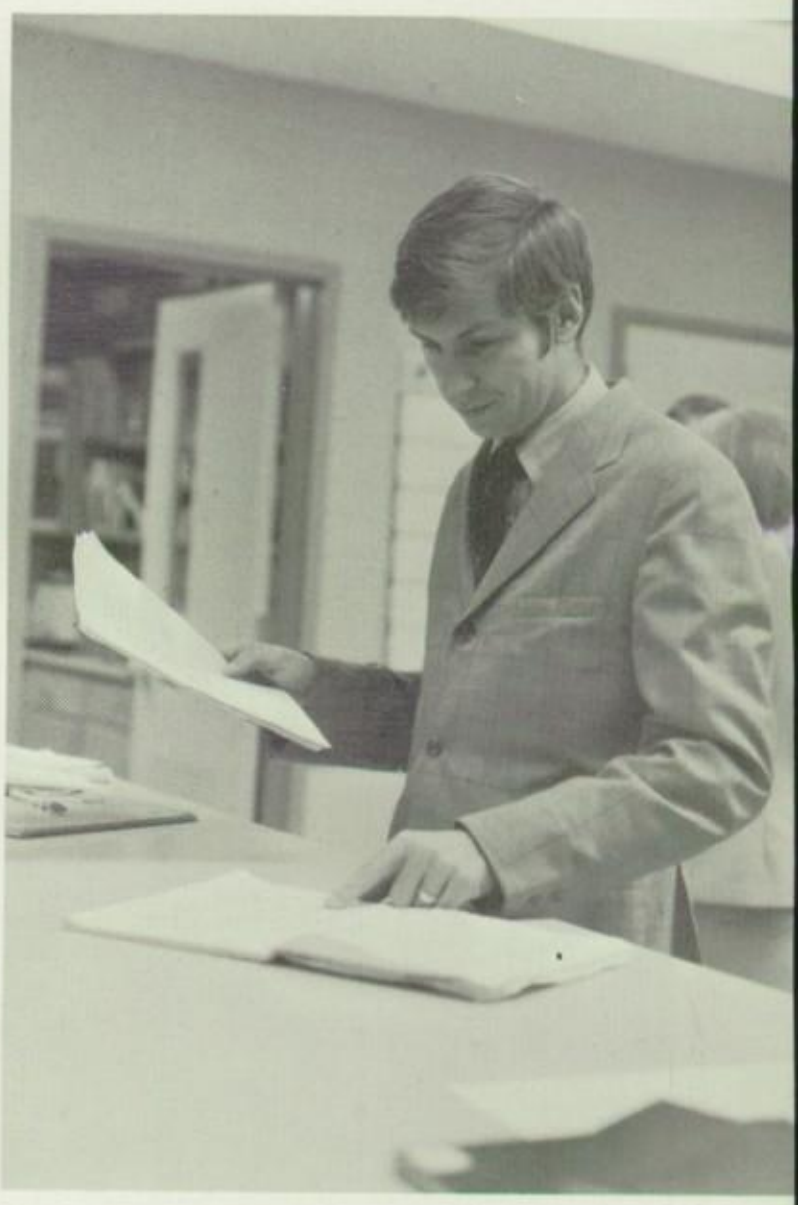
Administration Has Big Job to Do

As principal of Eastwood High School, Mr. Richard Lowrie must supervise the instructional program and show a keen interest in student activities. This year, for the first time, we have an assistant principal, Mr. Warren Tickle. As head of the guidance department, Mr. Eaken works to prepare students for the future. Of course, the cooks, custodians and secretaries perform very valuable services.



(Top) Mr. Richard Lowrie, high school principal, measures seniors for caps and gowns in preparation for May graduation. (Above) Mr. John Eaken, guidance director, sets up appointments for seniors to visit the colleges of their choice. (Right) Mr. Warren Tickle, assistant principal, checks absence records.

(Top) Mrs. Wilma Rife, Mrs. Mary Ruswinkle, and Mrs. Marge Caris prepare and serve about 200 lunches each day. (Above Left) Mrs. Milda Sander, office secretary, is custodian of all high school funds. (Above) Mr. Frank Brown and Mr. Art Lohrbach put in long hours cleaning and polishing the school and preparing for special school events. (Left) Mrs. Mary Kohring, office secretary, records absences and does most of the typing.

English Is Stressed

Mrs. Adeline Ridenour teaches sophomore English. On this level, students are encouraged to think and develop new ideas as well as to broaden their reading interests through the study of literature. Composition work and grammar are also stressed.

Senior English classes are under the guidance of Mrs. Carol Miltner. A semester course especially helpful to those who plan on going to college is English Composition. For those who wish to widen their reading background, English Literature and World Literature courses are offered. Mrs. Miltner also teaches sophomore English.

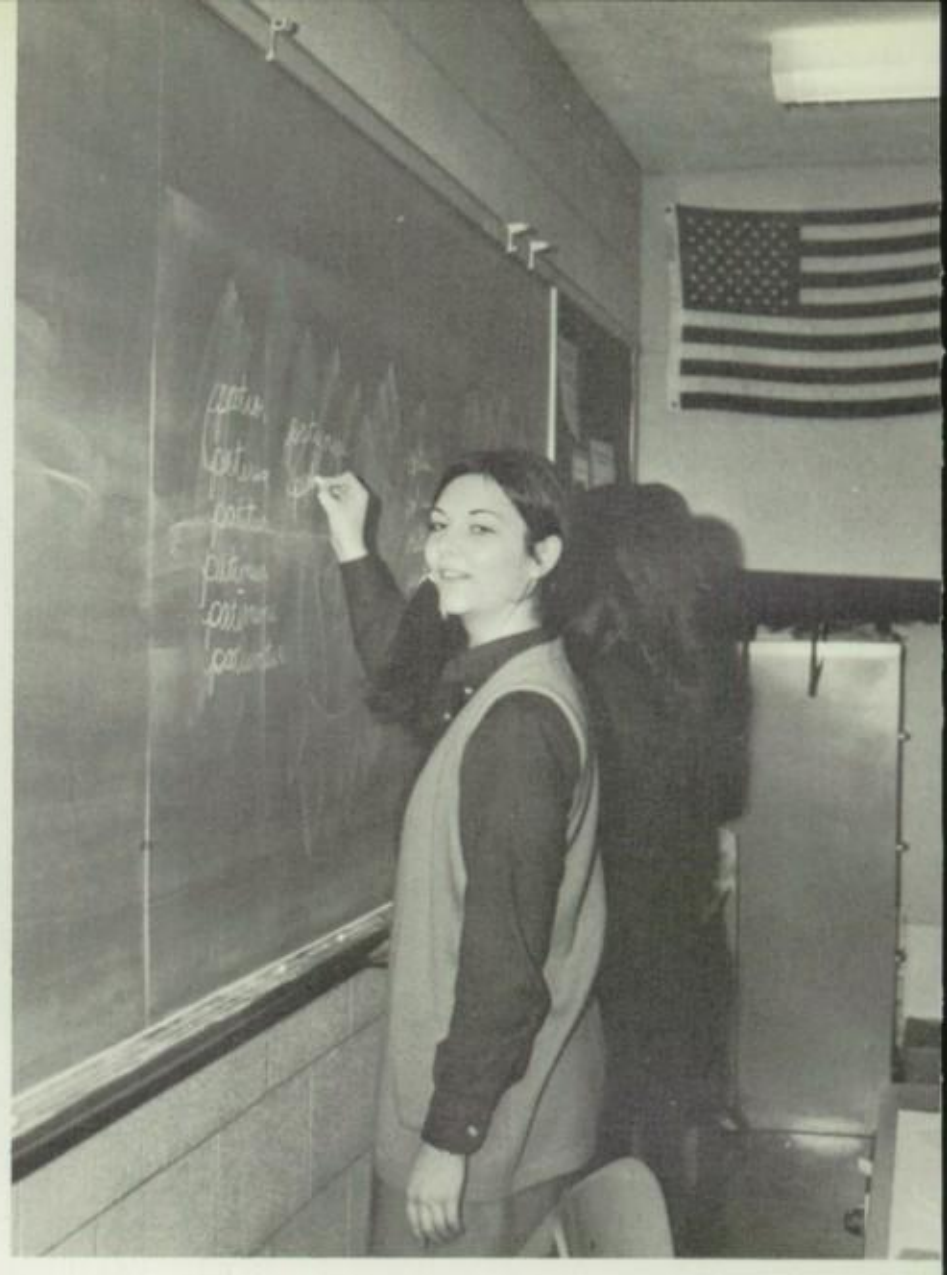
(Top) Mr. Heckman explains to Journalism I students the instruments used in writing headlines for the school newspaper. (Above) Mrs. Hagemeyer tries to convince the students of the importance of good speech.

Public speech and drama are taught by Mrs. Mary Hagemeyer. Speech presents the principles of communication through work in informative, entertaining, demonstrative, and persuasive speaking, with added work in debate, discussion, and broadcasting. Stagecraft, lighting, acting, and theatre history are considered in drama class. Mrs. Hagemeyer also teaches junior English, which stresses American literature and composition.

Mr. Richard Heckman, a new addition to the English department this year, is in charge of all the journalism classes. Journalism II students are responsible for putting out the EAGLE'S EYE bi-monthly. Mr. Heckman also teaches junior English.



The philosophy of the French and Spanish departments, according to Mrs. Mary Asmus, is that their curricula must include the study of humanity, as well as of words. The students and teacher keep each other informed on current international events. Such things as taking field trips and experimenting with the most typical dishes of each country's cuisine stimulate interest. In the classroom itself, instruction combines traditional grammatical methods with current trends involving the use of records, tapes, and films.

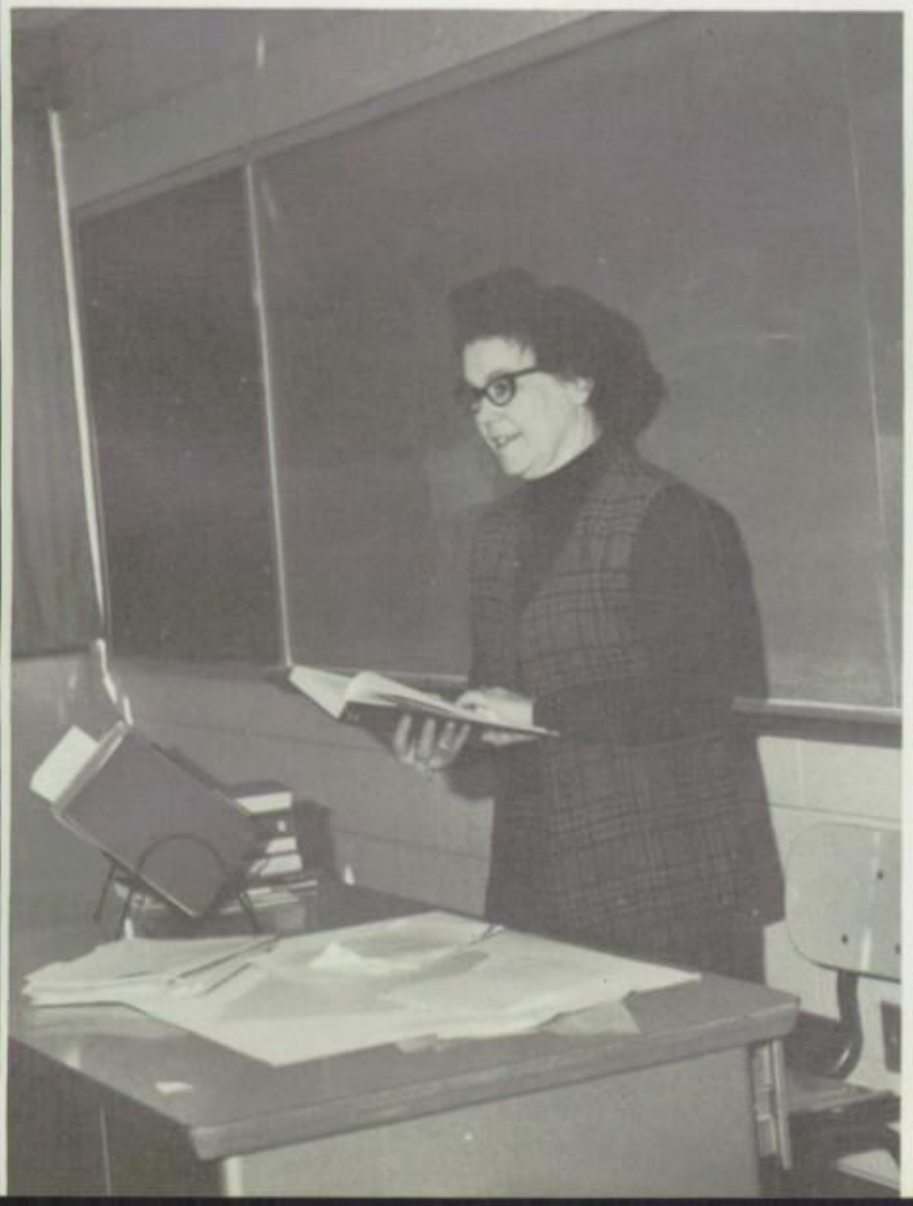
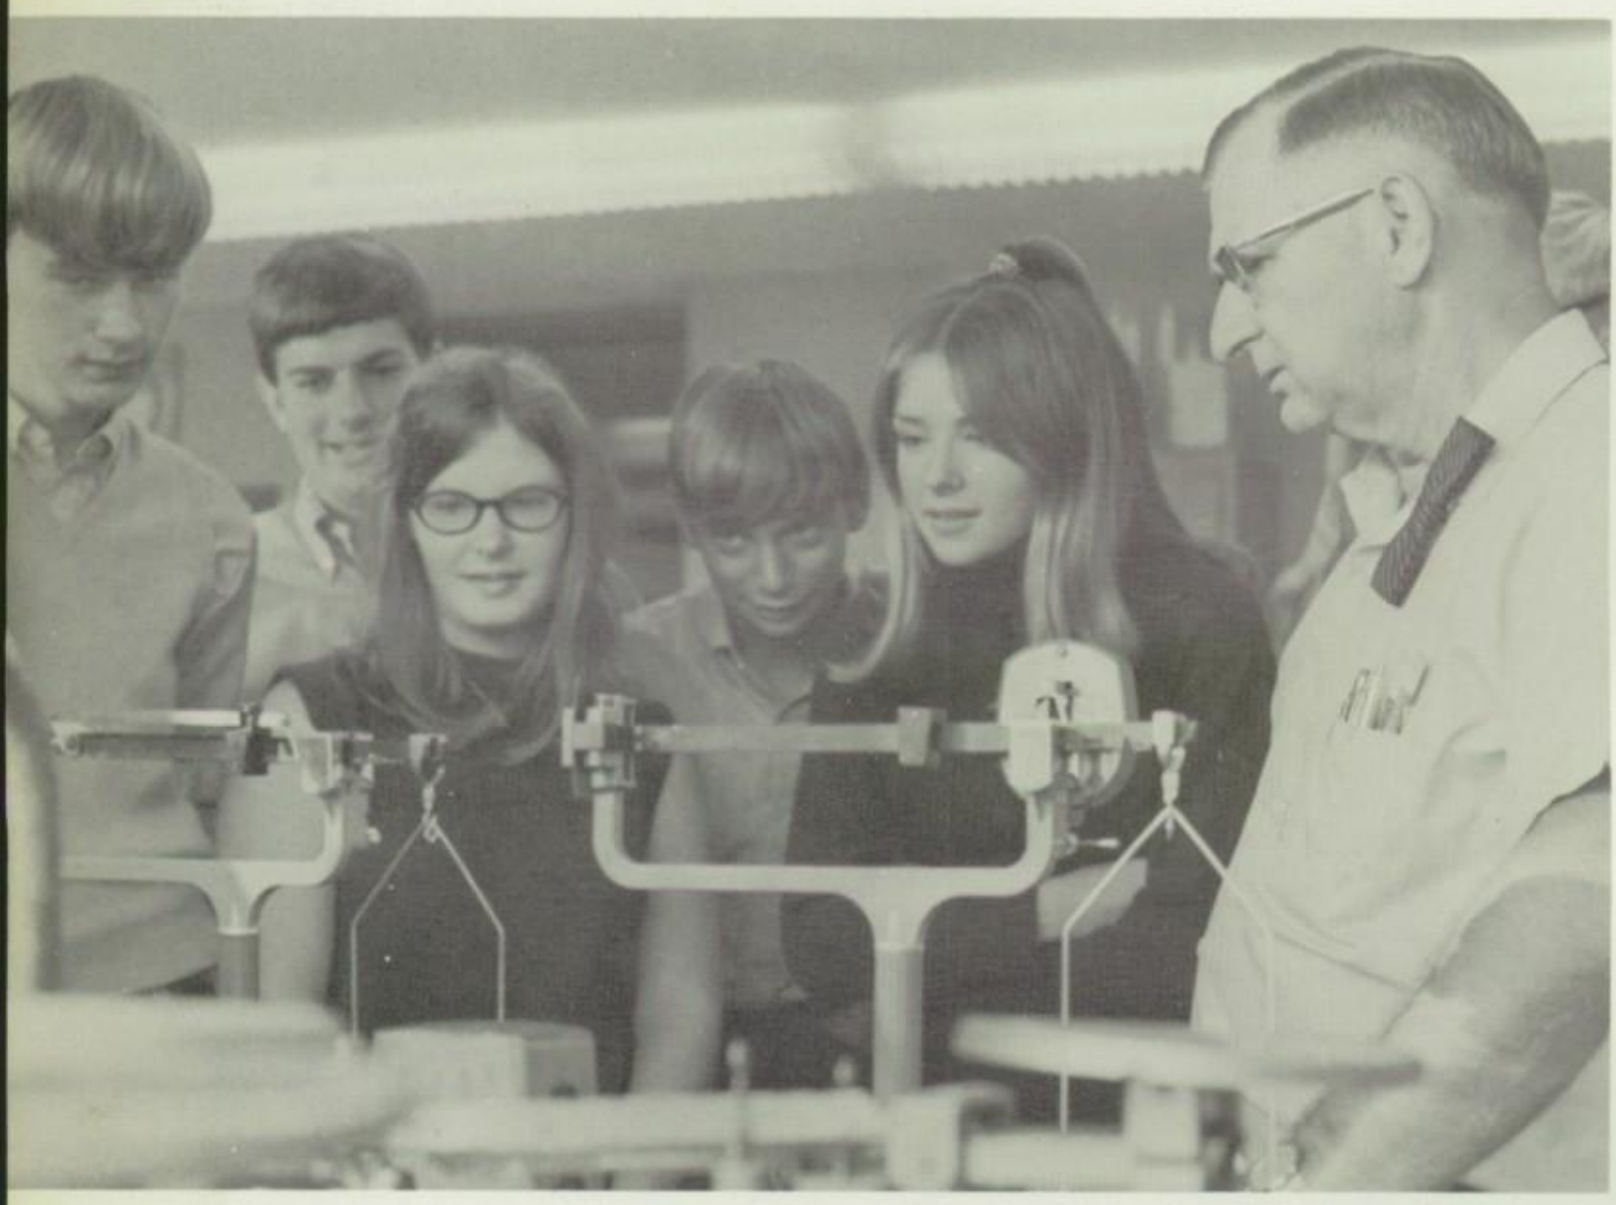
Spanish, French, Latin Taught at Eastwood



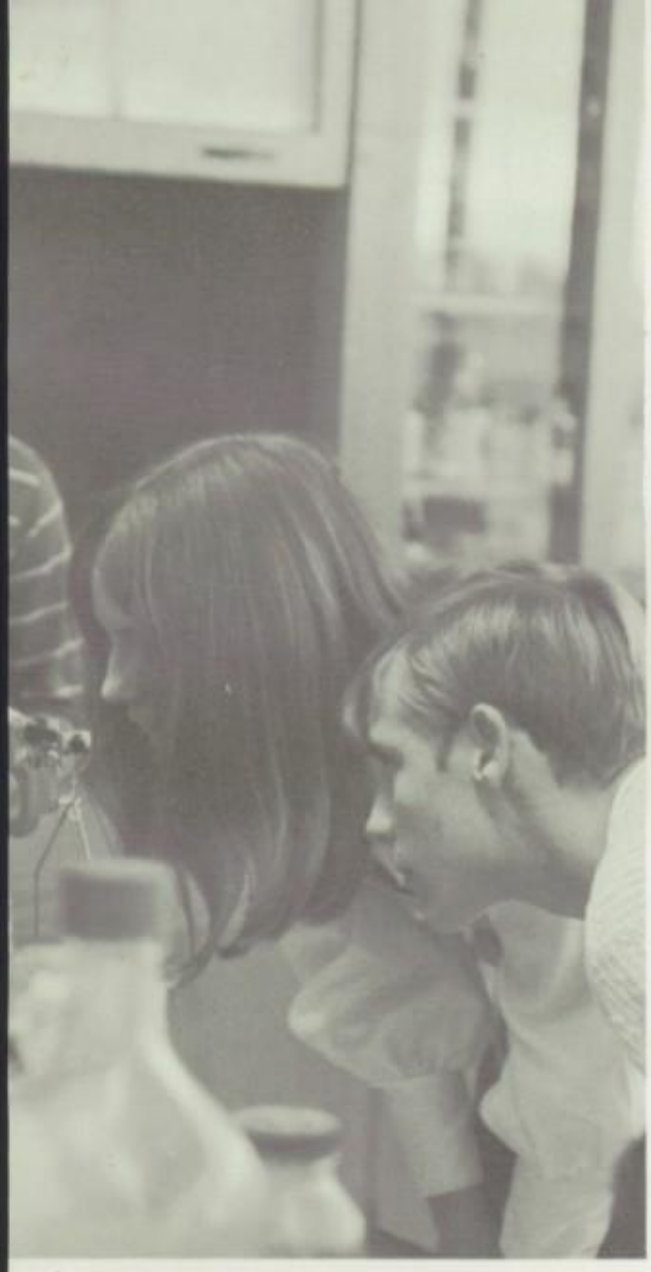
Latin classes are under the supervision of Mrs. Ridenour. In Latin II, emphasis is placed on an understanding and appreciation of Roman life and culture, influence of the Latin language on the English language, and greater proficiency with vocabulary and grammar in the language itself. Latin III and IV emphasize the study of Latin literature and important Roman writers.

(Top) Janie Sanchez points out famous landmarks on a map of Paris. (Left) Mrs. Ridenour instructs her class in the rudiments of Latin.

Science Stimulates Students' Minds



(Top) Interested students learn the fundamentals of chemistry. (Above) Mr. Heckman explains operation of weights and measures. (Right) Deb Lenke and Rick Rahe know the importance of exactness in chemistry.



Mr. Clarence Heckman teaches chemistry, advanced chemistry and physics. This year brought with it new chemistry textbooks and lab books. Since science advances so rapidly in today's world, these books were very much needed in order to try to keep up with the changes.

Mr. David Hendricks has classes in chemistry and biology. Biology II is a particularly interesting course in which the students study the world around them in a bio-physical sense. The first semester involves the breakdown of many biological phenomena to a molecular level. Second semester involves the application of these molecular concepts to a system level which will lead to an organismic level.

Math Skills Important in Today's World

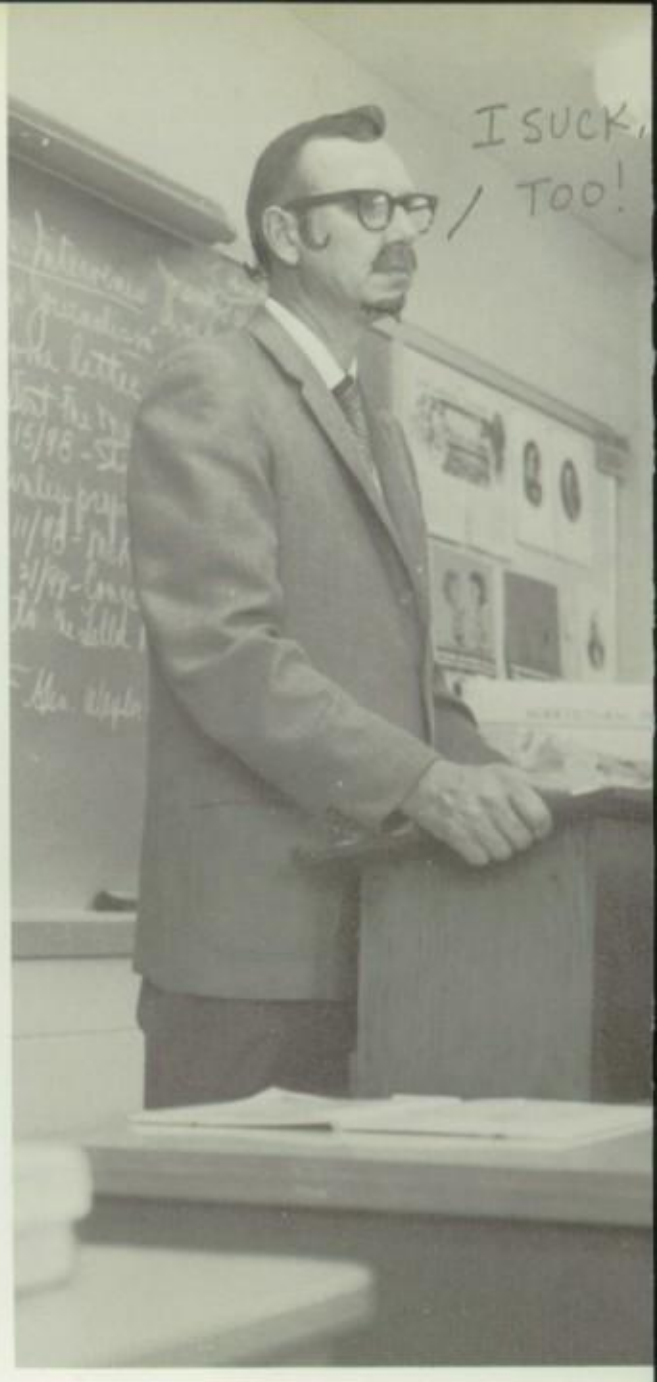
Algebra, trigonometry, and math seminar are taught by Miss Helen Rolfes. In math seminar, the most advanced course, the students give reports on various math topics to create and stimulate interest.

Also instructing in the math department is Mr. Don Gerke. Mr. Gerke specializes in geometry and general mathematics. Geometry forces students to think logically in writing proofs for problem solutions.



Social Science Classes

Study World Problems

Not just facts are exposed in American history. With Mr. Dale Bruning to guide them, students are reminded of problems in history and then they try to think of ways these problems could have been solved. The first of the school year is spent studying the period from 1898-1970, the period the students haven't had much contact with in previous courses. Mr. Bruning also teaches world history and sociology.

Mr. Warren Tickle says the objective of European history is to make students ask why. "Through the development of the logical thought process, individuals may develop well-based opinions about the world in which they live." Mr. Tickle also teaches economics and family living.

American government, a course required of all seniors, is taught by Mr. Calvin Freund. The purpose of this course is to give students a grasp of themselves in proper relationship to their social world, its institutions, functions and problems. Mr. Freund also teaches world history.

(Top) The sociology class holds a panel discussion on the problems of inter-religious marriages.

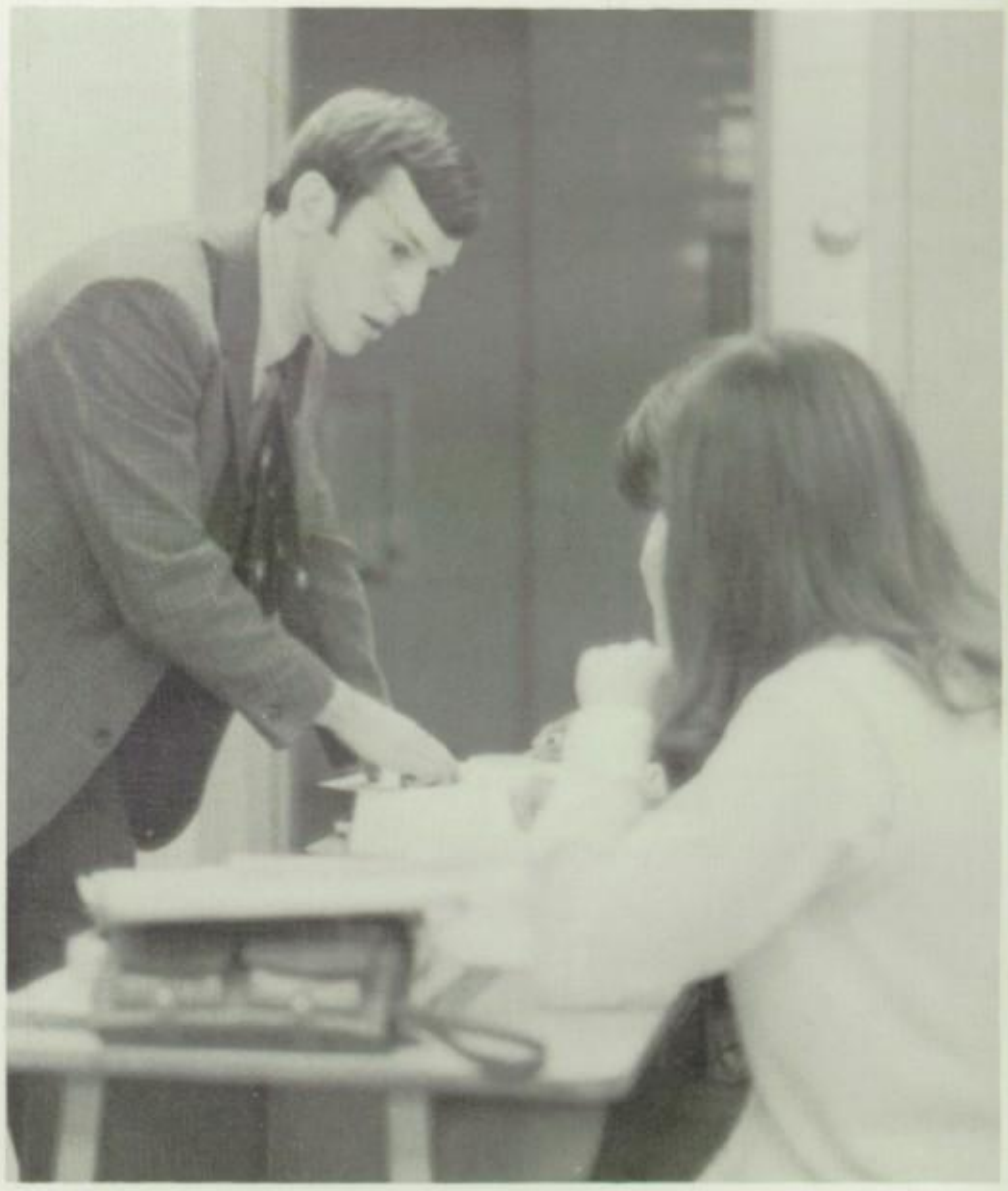
Mr. Terry Nigh, who teaches bookkeeping and business law, is a new member of the Eastwood teaching staff this year. In his bookkeeping classes, lab books are used to give students actual practice in keeping financial records. Law students study the legality of business transactions.

(Top) Typing students practice to increase their skills. (Right) Mr. Nigh explains bookkeeping procedures to first year students.



Many Prepare for Business World

Mrs. Margaret Filiere is the instructor for typing, shorthand, and notehand. Shorthand and typing are especially helpful for those students who plan to be secretaries, although other students take typing for personal use. Notehand increases note-taking ability.

Mr. Richard Martin informs his students in vocational agriculture about the various techniques used to make farming more productive. Boys interested in going into some type of agricultural job after graduation find that the courses offered in this area provide them with much practical experience.

The industrial arts department is under the direction of Mr. Adolph Madaras. Classes ranging from basic shop to mechanical drawing bring creative talent to light.

Mrs. Judy Tickle, chief of the home economics department, instructs her students in such courses as Vocational Home Economics I and II, Tailoring, Nutrition, Childcare, and Interior Decorating. These courses develop vital homemaking skills which the girls will undoubtedly be able to put to use.

Vocational Classes Benefit Students

(Top) Jay Dierker and Mr. Martin point out an interesting farm-oriented article. (Left) Home Ec. girls experience a few lighter moments after a long session over a hot stove. (Above) Janet Close completes a basic maneuver to the satisfaction of Mrs. Tickle.

Music, Art Classes Develop Talents

Vocal music is under the direction of Mr. Mark Deerwester. In addition to the mixed and girls' choruses are the ensembles and the Swingin' E's. These smaller groups sing at many social functions in the area.

Mr. Lawrence McCormick is in charge of the instrumental music. Much of the school year is spent preparing for concerts and for contest. There are also many special select instrumental groups.

Mrs. Sandra Jacomini is the art instructor at Eastwood. Many students show an interest in art. Their newest creations are often displayed for the enjoyment of others.

Phys. Ed. Keeps Guys, Girls in Shape

Physical education has a two-fold purpose of building healthy bodies and teaching the value of good sportsmanship.

Mrs. Ruth Mustain is the girls' phys. ed. instructor at both the high school and the junior high.

Boys' physical education classes are under the supervision of Mr. Paul Rolf. Mr. Rolf is also serving his first year as athletic director this year.

(Top Left) Steve Grolle gets the jump on his opponent and tips the ball. (Top Right) Mr. Rolf smirks after another hard day at teaching. (Above) Taking a minute out of her active school day, Mrs. Mustain poses for a picture. (Right) "Umph!" Elaine Moenter puts her all in playing volleyball.

Driver Education Classes Visit Court

Driver education has become an important part of the high school curriculum. Beginning the second semester, students attend a night class once a week. The actual behind-the-wheel instruction comes during the summer. Mr. Gary Bierly heads this department; other driving instructors include Mr. Fred Koester, Mr. Keith Niederkohr, and Mr. Bernard Wolfe.

Special Ed. Promotes Work Experience

Mr. Tom Reiter is the special education instructor at the high school. At this level, much of the student's time is spent in work experience. It is Mr. Reiter's responsibility to see that they are transported to their jobs.

(Left) Mr. Reiter makes sure that the assignment is clearly understood. (Above) Students work to get their assignment finished on time.

(Top Left) Jeff Gottschalk contemplates the solution to an electrical problem. (Top Right) Barb Carpenter uses Judy Nellis as a guinea pig to demonstrate chair-side dental assisting. (Above) Judy Burkholder shows off her flying fingers while tabulating a few columns of numbers. (Right) Diana Miller completes her detail work in commerical art.

Many Members of Senior Class Accept

As the seniors at E.H.S. prepare for graduation, they look back on their high school years. Four years have passed since they entered through those big doors. They will always remember all the hard work those first three years were, as they earned money for the prom they would sponsor as juniors. Their efforts were rewarded when Shangri-la became a reality. As seniors, they took over positions of leadership and were given new privileges and responsibilities. As they graduate, they will take with them the knowledge gained through hard study. But they will also take with them many memories—the work, the play, the faces that made it all a unique experience.

The week-end of November 13, 14, and 15 brought much excitement to Eastwood High School. It was then that all the long hours of hard work and practice were rewarded, as students displayed their talents in the musical production of "Oliver".

This story is set in England and centers around the experiences of a small, orphaned boy. Scenes of sadness, joy, suspense and humor were vividly portrayed.

The 1970 Eagle football season was one of many frustrations, but even so the players always tried their best. Since losing seasons are rough ones, the spirit of the student body often lagged. Yet there would always be an inspiring pep talk or a long-awaited touchdown to help everyone out of the rut. Although we ended the season with a 1-8 record, those boys gained a lot from the experience. Above all they learned to keep going and keep trying even when you're down.

Friday, October 9, 1970, was football homecoming at Eastwood. The court consisted of the following: Queen Mary Webb escorted by Keith Zellin, senior attendant Patti Ehmke escorted by Jeff Smith, junior attendant Debbie Lenke escorted by Bob Frobose, sophomore attendant Linda Henline escorted by Jim Hagemeyer, and last year's queen, Susie Sanchez, escorted by Dave Brinker. The ceremony itself was simple, but was performed beautifully. Although we lost the game to Anthony Wayne, it proved to be an exciting contest. The homecoming dance on Saturday night brought the festivities to a close.

ELEMENTARY

Five Buildings

House Elementary

"I feel the elementary education a person gets in many ways is the most important part of his academic life.

"This is the foundation on which to build, it must be solid.

"A good elementary school and a good well-disciplined religious home life is the key to the success or failure of the future.

"It is difficult for students to look ahead. It is difficult for them to realize that they are young people being taken care of a very short time, but they are adults who must take care of themselves a very long time.

"There are many people who would have never done anything with their lives if it hadn't been for a good elementary education."

MR. DAN DONALDSON
Elementary Co-ordinator

Lemoyne Elementary

(Right) Custodian at the Lemoyne building is Mr. Norman Boyd. Mrs. Ruth Brown serves as secretary. Greeting the children at lunchtime are the cooks, Mrs. Helen Hagg and Mrs. Alethea Michel.

Lemoyne school is located just off of Route 20 in Lemoyne. One of the smaller buildings in the district, Lemoyne serves pupils from kidnergarten through fourth grade. This year Lemoyne has added new playground equipment, designed to teach the children co-ordination while they are having fun.

Soon this year will become just another page in the history of Eastwood High School. All that remains now are the memories.

As editor of the 1971 AQUILA, I would like to extend a sincere "thank you" to:

The administration and f a c u l t y for their co-operation.

The Taylor Publishing Company and its representative, Jerry Barber, for their professional guidance.

Bob Abraham from Powell Studios and student photographers, Jim Donnell and Ron McCormick, for all the pictures in this book.

My terrific staff, and especially Joyce Wohn, business manager; Cheryl Davidson, assistant editor; and Mr. Gerke, our advisor.

And you, the subscriber, for making this book possible.

I wish the best of luck to Cheryl and her staff next year. May she share the pleasant memories of an experience not soon to be forgotten.

Sincerely,

Christy Schulte

To Jerry,

One of the best looking guys I've ever had like around. You have eyes like Tony Curtis and a head like Paul Newman. Keep smiling your the best of luck in the future and on all you do.

- Mary -

P.S. How did you read this?

To Jerry,

A great brother who sometimes is grouchy, stay with Cheri, drop Debbie C. forever. No one likes her very ~~good~~ well. Cheri is the best girl for you!

- Sister -

Bill

P.S. Debbie's not your type! Keep Cheri & I'll not tell your folks.

Jerry

Jerry,
To a guy whom I think is very tuff. I'm glad I got to know you this year and wish I could know you better!
But - I guess that's the way it goes. You've given me a lot to talk about not to worry about anything, and it really helped. Please don't wish me luck with Becca she wants me to start dating other guys, and - I'm going by starting with? I've really had a lot of fun this year with you you're really a nut. Still haven't Wanna Bet?
given you your Birthday Kiss Aug 28th but that will have to wait for a long time! I wish you all the Luck in the World and with Cheri. "Good Luck"
I dave fun this summer, hope to see you next year at P.C.?

Love You,
Susie

P.S. Ending is kinda stupid!

Hi Jerry,
& Cheri
Good Luck
In a great Jay I know at Eastwood. I wish you all the happiness in the world I hope you have fun in Aug. this summer. Good luck with Cheri. No matter what her mom says. I want to thank you for helping me out in some of my problems it really helped. Thanks. I hope to see you at P.C. Next year.
May God Bless
